American Legion Post 116 Receives a Howitzer Cannon

Several years ago, former Commander Lawrence “Chup” Sagataw along with Ken Meshigaud, Tribal Chairperson and Dave Anthony, Community Development Representative, applied to the US Army Donations Program for surplus equipment.

Eligible organizations are able to receive donations of federal property through the State Agencies for Surplus Property (SASP). SASP’s are state-run organizations that coordinate the federal program for the donation of federal surplus property to public, tax-supported entities and eligible, private, nonprofit, tax-exempt organizations. Once a request is made it goes through the Washington, DC, National Headquarters Office for verification, then it is sent to the appropriate agencies for processing.

On April 17, 2014, Darryl Hardwick, Post 116 Adjutant and Jim Wandahsega, Post 116 Sergeant-at-Arms traveled to Anniston, Alabama to pick up the Howitzer Cannon pictured above. Equipment is for static display only and is not in working condition. The Howitzer Cannon is a type of artillery that has a short barrel and used small propellant charges to propel at relatively high trajectories, with a steep angle of descent.

As part of the requirements for receiving the donation, Post 116 had to supply a concrete foundation. An area at the Woodland Gathering Grounds was designated and filled with the proper materials for displaying the cannon. The legion is currently planning an unveiling ceremony at which time the community will be invited to celebrate their new display. Once the date is confirmed notice will be posted throughout the community.

The American Legion Post 116 meets on the first Tuesday of every month beginning at 6:00 p.m. in the Elders Complex Building #1.

Adoption Requests

Hello, my name is Nickolas Burns and I am writing to you to ask for your vote in this year's 2014 adoption process. I am of 3/8 blood quantum from the Hannahville band of Potawatomi People, and I am the son of Cynthia and Daniel Burns. My grandparents were Fred and Rose Wandahsega who were both tribal members of Hannahville. Some of my immediate family includes my aunts: Jan Wandahsega, Gloria Wandahsega, Barb Philemon (deceased), Mary Meshigaud, Brenda W, and Anita Howard. My uncles include: Fred (deceased), Bill, Scott, and Jerry Wandahsega. Most of my relatives live here on the reservation aside from the few cousins who still reside in Wisconsin. My mother is a tribal member who works at the Hannahville School with kids ranging from toddlers on up to third grade where she is teaching language and culture. My father is not a tribal member, though he has been around for the forty plus years that my parents have been married. You may recognize him as the man that looks like Santa Claus. My family has been here for going on ten years now and I have been trying for more than that to be recognized as a tribal member.

As for me personally, I am a 2010 graduate of Bark River-Harris High School, and I currently attend Bay de Noc Community College where I am majoring in Pre-Engineering. However, I have recently decided to switch my major to Actuarial Science. I have decided that Michigan Tech is the best school for me, but I again need your help here. I do not qualify for the Indian Tuition Waiver because I am not a recognized tribal member; this is one reason I am asking for your vote. How can I help the community? Some of you might be wondering what an actuary does so I will sum it up for you, an actuary deals with insurance and predicting the likelihood that something will happen. They help most businesses with finances and other number crunching situations. I hope to work here in Hannahville and the surrounding areas and hopefully have my own little office in administration one day. Presently I work at Hannahville Youth Services where I am a Youth Coach/Mentor. It is my job to tutor our youth in all areas, but more specifically math. I also take on roles of planning/running events for youth and their families. You might have seen me at Rec Night, Basketball Games, Tubing Night, or End of the Year Picnic amongst other things. I really enjoy working here with the kids and often times wish that I didn't have to move on, but I do. Also, I help the school as a secretary to keep the mornings running smoothly.

As for my future, I hope to live here on the reservation as a tribal member which is also why I need your help. I hope to keep involved with the school and youth center and be active in helping the youth succeed. I would like to one day be on a board for the community and help guide us into the future. I moved here close to ten years ago and I didn't think I wanted to call this place home, but now it has grown on me. Most of you think I am already a member, but I regretfully am not. This is my home and my community, and I hope to be accepted into the tribe this year. Please Vote for Nickolas Burns on this year's adoption ballot. Thank you for your vote, Nicholas Burns

Bosho Hannahville Indian Community, I am Keith Tebear formerly Meshigaud and I'm asking to be adopted into the tribe of my family. For the past three years I've been volunteering as a coach for the Hannahville Boxing Club. While coaching I have been teaching the youth about a healthy, active, and sober life. I also have taken them to tournaments where they can experience new things and meet new people. I would be honored to call myself a tribal member while representing our youth at these events. Thank you in advance for your vote.

20 years and still trying! Please vote to adopt my daughters: Janna Havel and Janell VanderPlaats. Do or die, I have to try, try, try. Thank you, Janice Wandahsega

Hello, my name is Roxanne Miller, I'm writing to tell you about myself for your consideration when you see my name on the adoption ballot this year. Hannahville has been my home for almost 20 years. I graduated from Hannahville Indian School in 2000; and have been employed at Hannahville's Water Dept. since 2002. I am scheduled to obtain my Associate's degree in Water Resource Management from Bay College this May. My father; Eddy Sagataw, grandparents; the late Edgar & Charlotte Sagataw, and my two sons; Danté Miller & Demitrius Wandahsega, are all enrolled Tribal Members of Hannahville. I consider myself more than a registered descendant of Hannahville, I have many family members and friends from here. Not only do I have a history with Hannahville, I also see my future in Hannahville. I don't see any other place I would rather call home. Thank You.

Adoption Requests

Hello everyone, my name is Ben Wandahsega. I am a tribal member, Housing Director and employee of the Hannahville Indian Community for the past 20 years.

I'd like to introduce my children, Allison Taylor and Aiden Benjamin. They are both registered descendants and would love to be included as full members of the Hannahville Potawatomi Tribe.

My daughter, Allison Taylor is 11 years old and an honor roll student in her 5th grade class at Bark River-Harris School. She loves to play basketball, ski the slopes, ride horses and enjoys participating in the Summer Kid Zone program at Hannahville School. She is also active in the Giddy up and Go 4-H Club, loves her American Quarter Horse, Jack (a.k.a. Rustys Sunup) and hopes to someday work with animals when she grows up. My son, Aiden Benjamin is 6 years old and is in Mrs. King's 1st grade class at the Soaring Eagle School in Hannahville. He loves culture class with Mr. Kovish and is doing a super job of learning and speaking native language. Aiden also enjoys skiing and riding the chairlift, riding his 4-wheeler and his miniature pony named Jake, playing with his trucks in the mud and making fantastic creations with paper/cardboard and tape!

Allison and Aiden's Great-Great Grandfather was Frank Wandahsega Sr., a past Chairman of our tribe, he was married to Anna Keshick. Their Great-Grandfather is Frank Wandahsega Jr., known as "Slim", also a past Tribal Council Member. My father, their Grandfather, is Frank Wandahsega III, known as "Frankie" to most. He is a retired electrician from Mead Paper, an established wood carver and is currently employed at Sweet Grass Golf Club.

I humbly ask for your support and a vote of "YES" for Allison Taylor Wandahsega and Aiden Benjamin Wandahsega in helping them to become adopted family members of the Hannahville Potawatomi Tribe.

Dear Tribal Members,

My name is Nadia Hess and I am asking for you to vote YES for me in the upcoming Hannahville Indian Community 2014 election adoption requests. I am currently a descendant and I just turned 6 years old on March 12 of this year. I've lived here in Hannahville in the Cedarview subdivision since I was 8 months old. I also attended headstart at the Hannahville School where I have made many friends. I enjoyed learning about our culture and language in school. One thing I love about our culture is dancing in the Pow Wow. I have been dancing in the Pow Wow since I was 2 years old.

Unfortunately for me we were not residing on the reservation when I was born, so the only way I can become a tribal member now is if I am fortunate enough to be adopted in. Luckily I live here now and will continue to live here where I can be raised with my friends and family. I'm praying for enough votes for my adoption so I will be able to live here on the reservation as a tribal member as I should be.

My mom is Amanda (Webber) Hess, she is currently an enrolled tribal member and has worked for the tribe in the Purchasing Department for 5 years at Hannahville Administration building. My biological grandmother was Lynette Smith and my great grandparents were Lucy (Feathers) and Francis Smith Sr. I also have many aunts, uncles, and cousins who are enrolled Tribal members.

My future is here in Hannahville and I am also the future of Hannahville. Please select me for adoption in the 2014 election as my name is on the ballot and I would be honored to be a member of this great community.

Meegwetch, Nadia Sandra-Sue Hess

Adoption Requests

To the eligible voters of the community;

Boo-zhoo, our names are Charles Meshigaud and Melinda Meshigaud and we are writing this letter on behalf of our daughter Shyanne Louise Meshigaud. We were hoping that we could take a little bit of your time to ask for your help in getting our daughter adopted into the tribe. Because we chose to reside in Escanaba when Shyanne was born in 2007 she needs help getting adopted into our tribe. Our son Daniel Mark James Meshigaud is an enrolled member of the tribe. Shyanne's great-grandparents on her father's side are Hubert and Luella (Wandahsega) Meshigaud and were both members of the Hannahville tribe. Also her great-grandmother on her mom's side of the family was Hazel Wandahsega and she was also a part of the tribe. Her grandparents on her dad's side of the family are Daniel and Lorrie Meshigaud and her grandfather is also a member. On her mom's side of the family her grandmother is Bonnie Gafner and she is also a tribal member.

We would just like for our daughter to be able to further her education in college if she chooses and have an option to get the tuition waiver. Our daughter loves to go to school and scores above her class in all of her subjects. We would also like her to know that if she moves back to Hannahville in the future she will be able to have the option to get help with housing. We would also like her to know that the community has programs that she would be able to utilize as an enrolled tribal member.

Our daughter has also been involved in many activities in the community even though we reside in Wisconsin. She has attended the pow wow every year since she was born and has also had the opportunity to go to the Potawatomi gathering when it was in Hannahville last and also traveled to the gathering last year. She also loves to dance and be around the drumming and has since she was born. We also put her to sleep with drum cd's. She has lots of friends in the community and spends summers in Hannahville between her grandparent's Daniel and Lorrie Meshigaud's home and Bonnie Gafner's home. She also likes to spend time watching her aunts Nikki and Kira do beadwork and she loves to learn about her culture. We would just like for our daughter to know that she has a family with our tribe and that she is a part of a greater community. Thank you so much for taking your time to read this letter for our daughter Shyanne Meshigaud and we would like to say thank you beforehand for your votes.

Hi, I'm Kimberly Kang (18 years old). I am currently listed as a recognized descendant and am applying to be adopted into the community. The following tribal members are who I am descended from: Mother, Jackie Kang (Baldwin), Grandmother, Susan Jensen (Baldwin, Smith), Great-Grandmother, Agnes Smith (Wandahsega). Agnes was a sister to the following Wandahsega: Lillian, Hazel, Cecilia, Dolly, (Slim) Frank Jr., Fred, Thomas, James and Rose.

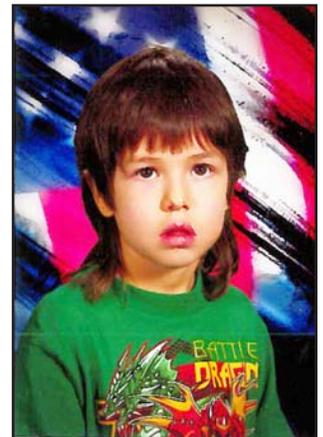

This May, I will be graduating Escanaba High School and going off to college in the fall. I plan on attending Eastern Michigan University to earn a degree in Music Education. Through middle school and high school, I have discovered my passion for music.

I want to be able to spread that passion to other kids by becoming a music teacher and would love to see the addition of a music class in our community.

I am a very friendly, hardworking, positive person and am very proud of my native heritage. Being an enrolled member would be a great honor and privilege for me. Also, being able to receive the Michigan College Tuition Waiver would greatly help out my family and I.

So I would like to ask you to please vote yes for me to be adopted into the Community. My most sincere appreciation is going out to you for your vote. Migwetth

My name is Noel Sagataw. I am nine years old. Charlene Peters is my grandmother. Jessie Sagataw is my mother. I would like to be adopted into the Hannahville Tribe.
Thank you.

Summer Camps

Indian Village Camp

This is a four day wilderness camp program focusing on tribal culture and natural living skills, using the Peacemaking talking circle throughout. This camp is for prevention (to keep kids who are currently not getting in trouble, on the right path) and for intervention (to get kids who are starting to veer off track, going back in the right direction). Indian Village Camp is something very powerful and positive for those who have found their way to the circle. It is a grass roots example of people helping people, and looking out for one another's best interest in a community setting. It is based on inclusion and allowing everyone to be heard. Indian Village Camp is a reconnection to our mother earth. It is learning to listen to the teachings of nature, a life changing experience for some.

Tentative Camp Dates: June 26 – 29, July 10 – 13, August 7 – 10, and August 28 – 31. This season will be our fourth year of operation. Our staff are devoted to this program and experienced in being positive leaders for our youth. These adult leaders offer many highly skilled and specialized projects, focusing on our Anishinaabe culture, and the balanced ways of simple natural living. This is truly a community built and supported program, supported by our elders, veterans, elected officials, different tribal departments, volunteers and parents.

This program is sponsored by the Little River Band of Ottawa Indians Tribal Court, Peacemaking/Probation Department. Trained adult staff work all day and all night to keep programs moving and ensure safety. Indian Village Camp has four camps per season. Each camp is four days long.

ELIGIBILITY: All Tribally connected youth, 12-17, male or female, tribal members, descendants, of LRBOI or other tribes, non-members by special circumstance approval, such as from mixed homes. An application form is available at the LRBOI website: www.lrboi-nsn.gov. All applications must be filled out by a legal parent or guardian. To get an idea of what camp is like, you can search for "Indian Village Camp" on youtube. Limited space available.

Three elements keep kids motivated to learn all year long

As summer approaches, it's tempting to relax about academic responsibilities. But every day of preschool and kindergarten should count! Your child is building critical skills that will put her at ease in first grade and beyond. To motivate her to continue learning, focus on:

- 1. Interests. Kids try hardest when they're enjoying activities. If your child is practicing a math skill, for example, pick an activity that's challenging—but not so hard that she wants to give up. Better yet, let her choose from several activities. Interest and success motivate kids to keep trying.
- 2. Freedom. Kids need to learn both with adults and on their own. Give your child chances to solve problems independently. Simple toys, such as blocks and toy figures, help because they promote creativity. If her tower falls down, don't tell her how to fix it. Ask, "Now how are the construction workers going to make it stronger?" Then let her do it her way.
- 3. Emotion. Motivated kids have positive feelings about their work. While praise is valuable—especially when it is detailed and specific—genuine interest in a task and success with it should encourage your child most. If she's done something well, it helps to ask, "How do you think you did?" Then agree with your child's positive assessment!

✓ Don't take a vacation from education

Summertime learning shouldn't be just worksheets and drills. Keeping your child's brain engaged during school break can be fun for both of you.

Here are some ideas to try:

- Read rhyming books and encourage your child to rhyme one-syllable words.
- Play age-appropriate games. Card games like "War" (flip two cards; the higher one wins) are a great way to work on number skills.
- Look at pictures together—in magazines, books and on billboards or shop signs. Ask your child to describe what he sees.
- Practice writing different ways—with chalk on the sidewalk, with a squirt bottle of water on an outside wall, with a finger in a dish of sand.
- Experience new things with all five senses. Pick a different sense each week and let your child try something new. See a new place, listen to a new song, touch a new fabric, smell a new spice, taste a new vegetable.

Bridge the attention gap

A kindergartner must be able to concentrate for at least 15 minutes at a time. To build your child's attention span:

- Read aloud.
- Give her a puzzle. Try one with four pieces.
- Use a timer. Start with 10 minutes. Ask her to play on her own until it goes off.

Simple shapes go mobile

Help your child learn the shapes he will need to know in kindergarten by making a mobile to hang at home. Here's how:

- 1. Gather materials: a coat hanger (without wire is best), string, colored paper, scissors, crayons and tape.
- 2. Start with a circle. Point out circles to your child. Ask him to identify circles. Have him draw one on colored paper.
- 3. Cut it out and tape it to a piece of string. Tie the string to the hanger.
- 4. Repeat with squares and triangles.

Keep an eye on screen time

Your child may have more free time in the summer, but to keep her primed for school success, most of it should be spent in wholesome pursuits and not in front of a screen. Here are some guidelines:

- Infants and toddlers: The best amount of screen time, according to the American Academy of Pediatrics, is none.
- Preschoolers and kindergartners: Limit TV and computer games to no more than two hours a day.

Plan now to make summer reading fun, not frustrating

You know that reading over the summer is a great way for your child to maintain important skills. But did you know that she benefits most when you emphasize key elements of reading? They include:

- Access. Make sure your child has regular opportunities to find books she likes. Plan frequent trips to the library. Sign up for summer reading programs. Visit bookstores and reading websites.
- Support. Kids need help picking the right books. For example, does a book match your child's reading abilities? How about her interests? Before school ends, ask the teacher for your child's reading level, and for summer reading suggestions. These will help when selecting books and talking to librarians. Websites like greatschools.org can help you find books, too.
- Discussion. It's important to check your child's comprehension when she reads. Ask, "What happened in the story?" and "How did it end?" Also encourage her to ask you questions. Enjoy learning from each other! If your child struggles with more than five out of every 100 words, the vocabulary is probably too advanced. It's okay for a book to be challenging, but summer reading should not be a source of stress.

Persistence pays off

Successful people in fields from athletics to science share one trait: persistence—the ability to keep going, even when things are challenging. If your child is losing motivation for schoolwork, remind him:

- Regular practice is important for success. It is true for soccer or piano playing, and it is just as true for learning to read or solving math problems.
- How good it will feel to achieve his goals for the year. Have him post them where he can see them daily.

Source: A. Duckworth and C. Peterson, "Grit: Perseverance and Passion for Long Term Goals," Journal of Personality and Social Psychology, 2007, <http://tinyurl.com/kuye8w>.

Fine-tune self-esteem

What would Goldilocks say about your child's self-esteem? To make sure it's "just right":

- If your child feels she is entitled to special treatment, set limits and enforce them. Ask her to pitch in around the house.
- If your child thinks her ideas don't have much value, teach her new skills—mastering them will boost her confidence.

Learning: Don't let your child miss out

The school year is winding down, but summer isn't here yet. It is important that you keep the same focus on attendance that you did earlier in the year.

Here are three reasons why your child should come to school on time each day:

1. Learning hasn't stopped.

Teachers are still teaching new content. Kids who are absent won't know this information. Students who miss just 10 days of school in their early years are still behind in high school.

2. Teachers often plan group projects for the end of the year.

These promote cooperation, problem solving and responsibility—skills your child will need in the workplace. If he's absent, he won't benefit from these critical lessons.

3. Regular attendance teaches kids to be dependable. That's an important quality for everyone to develop.

Unplug your screen fiend

You've probably heard the experts' advice: "Limit screen time to two hours a day." That includes TV, computer fun and video games. It's easier said than done! It helps to:

- Change the family focus to more exercise and less sitting around.
- Be a role model. That means the two-hour rule applies to parents, too.
- Combine activities. Do sit-ups while watching a favorite show.
- Make mealtime technology free.

To get the most out of school, your child has to be in it

Several school districts have adopted a slogan that goes something like this: "Every day matters." It was true on the first day of school and it's true now, as classes wind down.

It is critical that your child be in school every day at this time of year. Classes and tests that play a role in the grades a student gets for the entire year are occurring now. A student's ability to pass a difficult class may be at stake.

Attendance does matter. Here's why:

- Teachers are still teaching new material. If your child is absent, she won't be exposed to things she will be expected to know.
- It's review time. At the end of the year, teachers devote some class time to preparing students for exams that cover the whole year's material. Often, students prepare for two tests per class: a state exam and the class final. Class review work is strongly linked to exam results.
- Exam schedules are set. Make-up dates for state exams and finals are limited. It is important that your child be present on scheduled test dates.
- Projects are due. Some teachers require end-of-year projects. If your child is out, she will not hear about due dates and resources for these projects. Nor will she be able to ask teachers for help if she is stuck.

Support freedom safely

As a middle-school parent, you must balance your child's desire for independence with your need to make sure she is safe and cared for. This summer, try these ideas:

- Add structure. If at all possible, enroll your child in a regulated activity, such as camp, sports or a civic program.
- Know where your child is. If she's with friends, know who they are, when she'll be home, and how to reach her.
- Assign chores. Without homework, she needs chances to be responsible.
- Limit electronic media use.

Make your evenings count

Students whose parents support their efforts do better in school. But when school is out, it is important that you maintain a level of involvement. If you are not with your child during the day this summer, plan to make early evenings family time. Have your child help make dinner. Talk and eat. Then take a walk or do an errand together. You will show him that he is important to you.

Volunteers learn on the job

Learning does not stop over the summer, but it does take different forms. Volunteer work provides your child a great chance to learn responsibility to the community while in a constructive activity. Some ideas:

- Tutor a younger child.
- Help out at the library.
- Collect cans of food for a food bank.
- Join in the efforts of a local group: a house of worship, scouting or pet rescue.

Source: L.H. Moore, "Volunteer Ideas for 5 Different Age Groups," CommunityService.org, <http://tinyurl.com/69l3oa9>.

✓ Summer's near: Make priorities clear

It's not vacation time yet! Your child may be dreaming of summer, though. Keep him focused and on track for a strong year-end finish by:

- Being firm. Even if you're hearing summer's siren song, too, keep enforcing school-year routines. That means no abandoning homework or bedtime just because the days are longer and oh-so-beautiful.
- Setting specific goals. Rather than send your child a generic "keep working hard" message, help him define his goals. "French has been giving you trouble all semester. I think you should commit to an extra 15 minutes of studying each night."
- Staying connected. Keep reading handouts that come home and stay in touch with your child's teachers. Let your child know you're still on top of things. "I read in your school newsletter that there's going to be an end-of-year spelling bee. How are you prepping for it?"

How do I enforce rules for my teen if no one else does?

Q: I am "The Meanest Mom on Earth," according to my 15-year-old. "Everyone else" has a later curfew—or none at all. "Everyone else" can go to the library or to other students' houses, whether or not parents are there. How can I stick to my values if "everyone else" lets their teens do more than I do?

A: First, there's a good chance that your child is exaggerating. Teens always want their parents to think no other students have a curfew or responsibilities—in the hopes their parents will change their minds.

Don't. If you've thought carefully about your rules, you shouldn't change them just because your teen wants you to. To avoid a big debate:

- Just say, calmly, "Sorry. I'm not the parent of those other kids. I can't change what their parents do. But we still have a curfew."
- Explain your values. Tell your child you want him to do well in school, and that means getting adequate sleep, and focusing on school responsibilities. And you want him to be safe and cared for.
- At a later time, check with the parents of your teen's friends. If you find out that everyone else really can stay out later than your teen, you may decide to relax your rule for next year. But you will have made the change on your schedule, and not because your teen whined.

Get set for a productive summer

It's time to make a plan with your teen to provide the structure he needs to keep learning and avoid drifting through the summer. Here are some ideas:

- Set some goals. When teens' brains go on vacation, achievement slips. Avoid the "summer slide" by helping him set learning goals. Perhaps he'd like to learn an instrument, or read all the books in a favorite series.
- Set some boundaries, too. You may be comfortable relaxing some school-year rules, like bedtime, for example. But don't let your teen out of responsibilities.

He should still help around the house. And limits on screen time should stay in place.

- Include physical activity. Teens often gain weight over the summer. Schedule regular times when your whole family can exercise. Take walks together. Sign up for a class at a recreation center.

The right tools build success

Summer is a good time for parents to add to their teens' "tool box" of life skills. Here are three to concentrate on:

1. Responsibility. Give him control over one or two aspects of his life. He could set up a checking account for his finances.
2. Autonomy. Be sure he can look after himself. Teach him to do laundry and prepare simple meals.
3. Focus. Help him explore a career choice.

Volunteer jobs empower teens to make a difference

Teens often feel that they lack the ability to do anything about the problems they see around them. A summer volunteer job can show your child that when he takes action, he does have an impact. Volunteering also:

- Teaches marketable skills. If he builds a database for the animal shelter now, he'll gain real-world experience that will set him apart when he's job-hunting.
- Boosts self-confidence. Knowing he can handle a challenge will give him the confidence to figure out other problems.
